On the other hand, you can use the application on any computer is at hand, since it requires no installation, and neither do registries need to be modified, keeping the target PC's health status intact. Leaves more to be desired To be fair, speed is another advantage, apart from portability. Pages almost instantly load, even if content is rich. There's a catch here as well, because pressing the return key has no effect, so you need the mouse to hit go. Navigation buttons to go forward or back, as well as to cut connection, or refresh, are also found on the upper toolbar. Unfortunately, there are a lot of elements missing that could have made it a bit better. For instance, you're limited to the two tabs, with no option to add more, unless running a different instance of the application. Bookmarks are not implemented, and history is only read for Internet Explorer, and not remembered upon exit. To sum it up Taking everything into consideration, we can say that Pupoz Browser comes with a slim interface, fast loading speed, and support for modern types of content. However, with only two navigation tabs, no possibility to save favorite pages, and limited view space, it can quickly make you look for alternatives. Download Pupoz Browser Apk
